In this chapter, the authors discuss the assessment, diagnosis, and treatment of mental disorders among American Jewish populations. Information about American Jews is provided, including important contextual information on antisemitism and Christian privilege. This is followed by attention to the assessment of American Jews in clinical settings (including clinical interviewing, psychological testing, and other forms of assessment), diagnosis (including cultural bound conditions), and treatment (including culturally responsive treatment and issues related to Jewish identity). Differences between and within Jewish subgroups (e.g., Orthodox vs non-Orthodox) are highlighted and discussed. Future research directions are also offered.
